I am glad to have the opportunity of saying that I have found the Edison Bell phonograph of great use to me. It lightens the labours of the day by putting the intolerable burden of letter answering into a few minutes, and so enabling one to sit down to write without having the edge taken off one's capacity by a couple of hour's correspondence.

The phonograph has answered all my expectations of its utility. It has never given the least trouble, is easily worked and I should not like to be without it.
