

Ruth Crockett
Torwood

June 21st 1914

With you I do not think Mr. Lloyd sounds at all hopeful, but it can do no harm to let him proceed if he wishes to. Probably when you mentioned your terms to an agreement a gentleman will cut [] off, at least I remember once of time before that happened, somewhat painfully so in the case of “The Lilac Sunbonnet”, out of which dear old Lady Violet Greville intended to make a fortune . . .