

Bank House

November, 16th 1895.

My dear Unwin

I have been lost to Nor'ard the Dogger for eight weeks. Hence, this silence.

I don't think we'll meddle with the Raiders glossary just now. I would not for gold nor silver touch one word of the Stickit Dedication.

But his reference to it in Vailima letters might be put as a footnote.

I have not heard of the New Review. Luck to it!

Some day we will do an Antonym, perhaps, but the reviewers say you are over producing if you send out a short thing just as much as if it were 100,000 worder.

Oh no, somebody has got the American publisher, I suppose he has reprinted from old papers, 'The Galloway Herd' an early daftness, which I have used as a mine for my other books. It amused me to hear of it. Of course I won't print on this side.

Your new library looks A1.

Awfully gloomy story though.

Ever yours. SR Crockett.

Golf helps one to write optimistic stories.