My Dear Unwin

I don't at all understand your withdrawing your permission to reprint the 30 pages of Cleg Kelly. I had already intimated your consent to the Cornhill. However, I shall not press you. It would have been a kindness to me.

I shall see what can be done in the matter of colonial editions of the Men of the moss hags and the other books.

I am obliged for the hint about a serial for the Century. There is no doubt I should like it. We have already arranged with Harper and it is likely with Scribners' people also. Of course you would need to deal with Mr Watt who at present gets me very satisfactory serial rights terms indeed. I am quite full up to the end of 1898 but I could do a story for 1899 if the Century cared to close [] with kind regards

faithfully yours
