My Dear Thin,

Many thanks for Stephen's and your delightful letter. Always glad to hear from you. I shall come and sorn at you soon, but for my lecture nights I must, worst luck, go to my brother-in-law's. I wish you would look out for me a standard textbook of medicine and surgery. I have come one or two croppers in my story over medical matters! e.g. over Mad Sir Uchtred's injury. Perhaps Quain's Dictionary would do. The Lilac is just printing its twenty sixth thousand. Good for ten days? We are all well.

With kind regards to Mrs Thin, and yourself,

Ever truly yours

S.R. Crockett
