Dear Mr. Mowat,

Thank you again for your kind letter written after your game at golf. I was delighted to hear from you again. I fear your admiration for my typewriting is due to my Secretary. With you I have felt the Blackmore begins many a book well, but rarely carries the interest past the fifth or sixth chapter - excepting only of course, Lorna which is unique. I am exceedingly anxious to see Pont's maps of Galloway in Bleau's Atlas. I wonder if you could get them for me? The Edition de Luxe will be out about October - Mad Sir Uchtred, next week.

I should much like to see the books which I have marked on the list returned herewith. The others I either possess or have access to.

With many thanks for your kindness,

I am,

Dear Sir,

Faithfully yours,

S.R. Crockett

I am looking forward to seeing you someday when you can look out
