My dear Unwin

Delete the reference to pages from the glossary. It was indeed compiled from the American edition with the corrections for facts. I had no other and he needed to have the whole work before him. In case of Harper's buying the book for 1896 I shall certainly retain the English book rights for disposal in this country. I was not aware of the close relations that subsisted between Harper's and Osgood and [Co] but on reference to Mr Watts letters I see that it is through Harper's agent that the communication has come.

Do send me two or three copies of the Lilac as soon as they are bound up I make two or three [errors] on the glossary but Dudgeon knows his work well.

With kind regards

yours faithfully

SRC.
